Passage 1:(20 points)*Read the following text carefully and complete the tasks below:

1. _____ We often hear people say, 'It's a small world, isn't it?' It's usually when they've just experienced one of those strange coincidences that seem to happen in nearly everyone's lives. You know the kind of thing: you're on holiday in another country and you run into a person you know from home, even though neither of you knew that the other was going there too.
2. _____ People often think experiences like this are evidence of something mysterious happening, some kind of hidden plan outside our knowledge. The scientific explanation is less exciting, and perhaps that's why some people are reluctant to accept it. Coincidences are events that unexpectedly happen at the same time for no clear reason, or finding an unexpected connection between seemingly random things or people. A very common example of the latter is talking to a complete stranger and finding that you have the same birthday. What are the chances of that happening?
3. _____ Actually, the chances are better than you might think, and there's a mathematical way to prove it. It has been calculated that the number of people you need to have a 50% chance of two of them sharing a birthday is 23. And when there are 48 people in a room, the probability goes up to 95%. To put it another way, if there are only 50 people reading these words (and I hope there are more!), one of them will almost certainly have the same birthday as me.
4. _____ The other part of the scientific explanation for coincidences is simply that there are so many events in people's lives. Just think of the number of people that you have had any kind of connection with during your life. There are probably over 10,000, and the older you get, the more there will be. If you are the kind of person who talks to strangers, you will definitely come across coincidences. Basically, when you think about how complex our lives are, especially nowadays with the Internet, the only surprising thing is that coincidences don't happen more often.

A. Match the following titles with each paragraph: (4 points)

Passage 2: (20 points)

Read this text, then answer the questions that follow:

For many, working as a pilot is an exciting career choice. You may enjoy working as a pilot if you enjoy flying and traveling, but there are also some elements of this profession that may not be suitable for everyone

A pilot is a person who operates a plane. They typically work for airlines, governments or other private businesses to transport passengers and goods. It's the responsibility of the pilot to ensure that passengers and cargo arrive safely at their destination.

There are some great benefits to working as a pilot, including:

As a pilot, you have the opportunity to travel all over the world. Many pilots work for airlines or private flight businesses where their primary responsibility is to carry passengers to different locations. Once you arrive at your destination, you often have the chance to spend some time there before your next flight. This means you're essentially getting free airfare to travel, which significantly reduces the cost. In addition, if you work for an airline, many allow their pilots to purchase tickets at a reduced price so that you can travel for cheaper even if you aren't working during the flight.

Pilots typically earn a high annual salary. The average salary for a pilot is $71,867 per year. In addition, pilots often receive a strong benefits package. You may earn more depending on the airline you work for, the city you're located or your years of experience.

Many people choose to become pilots because it can be an exciting experience. Some people may enjoy the feeling of being in control of an airplane and getting to see the world from above. They may also like the sense of adventure that comes with being a pilot, as they often don't know where they're going on their next scheduled flight. If you want a job that can often be surprising and thrilling, then you may enjoy working as a pilot.

While there are some great benefits to working as a pilot, you may also experience a few drawbacks, such as long hours, training costs and stress of work.

If you want to become a pilot, you should go for a test flight and you must pass certain medical requirements.
